

A walk from Therisso to Meskla

Zoom in to about 300 or 400% to view pictures better
(The 'dynamic' Zoom is a good tool to use)

Olive Trees at the start. (HAR)
Off for our walk. (KEI)
A "Gate" Into the hillside. (HAR)
Couple of Stragglers on the narrow path. (HAR)
The trail winds around the hillside. (LEN)
Ooops! Are they all waiting for me? (HAR)

We have a Drinks Break with a fabulous view. (LEN)
Harry settles down on the edge (not a precipice). (LEN)
A town in the far distance. (HAR)
The group and our left view. (KEI)
The central view with Barren Peaks and the town. (LEN)
We set off again down the road. (KEI)

I believe we went down this Road. (KEI)
Walking by the Cliff Face. (KEI)
On a daisy Track (HAR): ...then a beautiful flower, quite small. (LEN)
Down the Hillside. (LEN)
Down and through the flowers. (HAR)
A view beside us. (HAR)

The Taverna Sign. (HAR)
Open air and splendid backdrop. (LEN)
What a laugh. (RAY)
El Fresco Luggage Room. (HAR)
Novel Local Water Supply. (HAR)
David determined to rescue his spilled Glass of Orange. (LEN)

A track through the Mountains. (HAR)
A view with flowers (see photo below). (LEN)
Netting covering the ground under an olive tree. (LEN)
A wonderful View. (LEN)
The flowers of the photo above. (LEN)
As bottom left photo but showing more foreground. (HAR)

A goat – we are above a Village. (HAR)
Looking down on the Village Church. (HAR)
Just another goat. (HAR)
Going down before the turn to the right. (HAR)
A weir and bridge giving some interest. (HAR)
The final run before our coach at the church. (LEN)

Another trip to the White Mountains' foothills – Therisso. This page illustrates the valley walk, others chose the road route, to Zourva for lunch at Aimilia's Taverna. The morning break, although on a road, and the lunch were stunning in both views and its wildness. There was plenty of unusual flowers and all day the continually changing scenery was exceptional – including the goats.